

Patient Name: Asad

Patient Age: 29

Date: 2025-07-08 15:17:51

Patient Said:

Hello everyone, welcome back to my channel. Yesterday when I slept, there was nothing on my face. But now I have opened up and observed there, there are so many red particles or doors on my face. I am feeling so much happiness and pain. Could you please describe what is the issue? How can I cure it? And what are the future precautions which I can take care?

Doctor's Advice and Diagnosis:

With what I see, I think you have acne, which appears to be moderate to severe given the numerous red spots and inflammation on your face. To address this, I would suggest using a gentle cleanser and topical creams or gels containing salicylic acid or benzoyl peroxide to help reduce bacteria and inflammation, and if the condition persists, a dermatologist may prescribe oral antibiotics or other treatments to help control the acne and prevent scarring.

Note: This is an AI-generated consultation. For medical emergencies, please consult a professional doctor.